

About 60 percent of Africa's population has no access to electricity, despite the continent's abundant renewable energy resources, much of which remains untapped.

*Amadou Hott, VP, Power, Energy and Green Growth
African Development Bank*

