

The past twelve months have been eventful, characterised by surprise and change. But that should not cause us to lose sight of the urgency of decarbonization. The challenge is greater than ever, and there are opportunities for those quick enough to seize them.

*Howard Drake, High Commissioner
British High Commission*

